

339-338 BC

Third Holy War

Philip was interested by the Amphictyonic Council with the punishment of AMPHISSA, whereupon he seized ELATEA Battle of CHAERONEA.

By this battle Philip gained such an ascendancy that henceforth Greece was under control of Macedonia.

339 → 314 BC

Xenocrates was head of the Academy

339 → 338BC

1912Dates J-BK

Third Holy War against AM PHISSA

339 BC

1912 Dates J-BK

Carthage gained supremacy over the western half of SICILY

339BC

Rome

The PUBILIAN LAWS provided that at least one
CENSOR should be Plebeian

339BC

PUBLILIUS PHILO, the 2nd
plebeian to become dictator
passed a law prescribing
that at least one censor
should be plebeian

339BC

Sacred War against Amphissa

(339) BC

Temoleon defeats Carthagenians

Publius Laws confusion power of Romans

337BC

LEGES PUBLICAE: (a) one censor had to be plebeian, (b) all laws passed in Centuriate Assembly had to be sanctioned by Senate, (c) plebiscites were given some validity in law